FUEL THE FIRE: SNAP-ON ANNOUNCES SPECIAL EDITION 'FLAME' TOOL STORAGE UNIT
Wild design adds heat and style to the industry's highest quality storage products

KENOSHA, Wis. (May 9, 2007) – Can your wrenches, ratchets and power tools handle the smokin' hot heat blazing from Snap-on's special edition Flame tool storage roll cab? The newest addition to the Classic Series, the Flame unit (KRA2411PLVX) offers Snap-on's familiar utility and quality with an unfamiliar twist.

A testament to bold design, Snap-on's Flame roll cabinet is a gloss black powder coated box with die cut flame decals applied to the surface. The brilliant flames rise up from the bottom, enveloping the unit in a fiery inferno. This is certainly not your grandfather's tool box.

The Flame unit is part of Snap-on's Classic Series and provides an affordable option for the new technician without sacrificing quality and durability. Like all Classic products, the Flame unit includes double-wall construction with full-height inner walls welded in place for strength, ball bearing drawer slides and Lock 'n Roll drawer retention. The 54¾-inch wide, two bank cabinet has approximately 23,600 cubic inches of storage space, stands at 39¼ inches high and has a depth of 24 inches.

In addition, the unit also features two-inch mounting centers for flexibility in arranging drawers, solid engineering and corner gussets for added strength and Snap-on's lifetime warranty on workmanship and materials. Optional add-ons for this Classic Custom unit include a top chest, workstation riser and hardwood or stainless tops.
