Snap-on Drivers at Head of Pack for Daytona 500

KENOSHA, Wis. – February 13, 2009 – Last weekend was a banner weekend for Snap-on drivers as Martin Truex Jr. captured the pole for the 51st annual Daytona 500 while Kevin Harvick came from behind in thrilling fashion to capture the Budweiser Shootout last Saturday night at Daytona.

“We want to congratulate Martin and Kevin on their great weekends,” said Alicia Smales, vice president of marketing for Snap-on Tools. “The shootout was exciting from start to finish and Kevin made a great run at the end to capture the title. We are very excited for Martin as he truly is one of the rising stars of NASCAR and his season is off to such a great start. We wish all our drivers good luck this weekend at Daytona.”

The Daytona 500 is scheduled for Sunday, February 15 and, in addition to Truex and Harvick, Snap-on drivers Aric Almirola, Juan Pablo Montoya, Casey Mears, Jeff Burton, Clint Bowyer, Sam Hornish, Kurt Busch and David Stremme will also try to race to the checkered flag next Sunday.

Preceding the 500, the Nationwide Series will have its season opener on February 14 with the Camping World 300. Clint Bowyer along with Justin Allgaier will represent Snap-on as they try to start the Nationwide season with a victory.
