Two Top Four Finishes for Snap-on Drivers at IRL Indy 300 in Kansas

Snap-on Driver Kurt Busch Takes Over Sprint Cup Points Lead

KENOSHA, Wis. – April 28, 2009 – It was a banner weekend for several Snap-on drivers as Team Penske's Helio Castroneves finished second and Ryan Briscoe was fourth at the IRL Indy 300 on April 26 at the Kansas Speedway. Although Kurt Busch finished sixth at NASCAR's Aaron's 499 held Sunday at the Talladega Superspeedway in Alabama, it was a good enough showing to propel Busch into the lead in the Sprint Cup points standing.

"We want to congratulate both the IRL and NASCAR Penske teams on their great weekends," said Alicia Smales, vice president of marketing for Snap-on Tools. "Helio and Ryan both had terrific showings at Kansas and are in great shape heading into the Indy 500. We also applaud Kurt Busch, who has had a very consistent year and is now the Sprint Cup points leader after nine races."

Heading into the Indy 500, Team Penske has three drivers in the top 10 in the IRL points standings after three races: Briscoe is second overall, Will Power is ninth and Castroneves is tenth. The Indy 500 is scheduled for May 24. Busch and his Penske racing team will try to pad their points lead as they head to the Richmond 400 on May 2.
