Snap-on Driver Will Power Wins in Brazil for Second IRL Victory of Season

Team Penske Driver Now First in IRL Point Standings Heading to Indy 500

KENOSHA, Wis. – May 2, 2011 – Four poles, two victories and the lead in the IRL season-point standings. Not a bad start to the season for Snap-on sponsored Team Penske driver Will Power. Power won his second race in 2011 with a victory at the Sao Paulo IRL 300 on May 2 in Brazil.

“Will Power is having a phenomenal start to the season and we want to congratulate him on his win in Brazil,” said Rick Secor, director of marketing communications for Snap-on Tools. “He has been the dominant driver in the IRL so far this year and we are hoping for big things for him at the Indy 500 on May 29.”

Power has started on the pole in each of the four IRL races this season. He also captured the IRL Grand Prix of Alabama on April 10 in Birmingham. In addition to his two victories, Power also had a second-place finish (St. Petersburg) and 10th-place showing (Long Beach). Power and the rest of the Penske Racing team will be back in action for the Indy 500 with qualifying scheduled for May 21 and the 100th anniversary of the Indy 500 set for May 29.

In other Snap-on racing action, Cruz Pedregon and the Snap-on Funny Car will return to the track May 13-15 for the Spring Nationals in Atlanta. Pedregon is fourth in the season-point standings after five races.

Snap-on’s NASCAR drivers will be racing this weekend at the Darlington (S.C.) Raceway. The Nationwide drivers will race on May 6 and the Sprint Cup race will be held May 7.
