Weekend Brings Successes and a First for Snap-on Racing

KENOSHA, Wis. – August 19, 2013 – Joey Logano, part of Snap-on sponsored Penske Racing, had his first Sprint Cup win for the team this weekend at Michigan International Speedway. His Penske Racing team member AJ Allmendinger won the inaugural NASCAR Nationwide Series race at Mid-Ohio Sports Car Course in Lexington. And, in NHRA racing, Cruz Pedregon clinched a spot in the Countdown to One in the Snap-on Tools Funny Car.

“We applaud the hard work by our Snap-on sponsored NASCAR and NHRA drivers this weekend. It continues to pay off for them and for those of us who are motor sports fans,” says Yvette Morrison, vice president of marketing, Snap-on Tools. “This is an important win for Penske to have one of its drivers, who is new to the team, take the checkered flag at a track so near its headquarters and in the home of the winning car’s manufacturer. Overall, it was a very successful weekend for Snap-on Racing.”

Logano started on the pole and led the race 51 laps before taking the win; Allmendinger led 73 of 94 laps and survived a late challenge in the race to cross the finish line first; and Pedregon put a cylinder out in the first round, but maintained his overall third place standing just a week before drag racing’s final event of the regular season.
