Snap-on “Must Have” Cordless Grease Gun Tackles Tough Jobs in All Conditions

Industrial Strength CGG4850 is High Pressure and Cold-Weather Rated

KENOSHA, Wis. – January 28, 2011 – Snap-on’s 18-Volt Cordless Grease Gun (CGG4850) is built to perform tough jobs in many types of conditions. Durable and powerful, yet easy to use, the Snap-on Cordless Grease Gun is a “must have” tool.

“Our 18-volt cordless grease gun was created with input from service techs because no one knows better than our customers what this tool should do,” said Rodger Isetts, product manager for Snap-on. “The CGG4850 is a versatile and durable tool that provides longer tool life and greater performance in any type of weather. It’s high pressure and cold-weather rated, giving service techs the quality and productivity they demand.”

The Snap-on CGG4850 includes a cordless grease gun, two batteries (CTB4187), a charger (CTC620) and storage case. Some features and benefits of Snap-on’s 18-Volt Cordless Grease Gun include:

- High pressure 7,500 PSI hose, flexible in cold weather
- Tool operates at -5 degrees Fahrenheit; motor won't stall in cold conditions
- First stage planetary gearing and second stage steel spur gearing means less wear and higher strength for better performance and longer tool life
- Pump housing pressure tested to 20,000 PSI; works under extreme conditions to handle heavy duty applications
- All steel slide crank mechanism – fewer parts and greater durability means less down time
- Glass filled nylon housing offers durable high impact strength for longer tool life
- Over molded comfort cushion trigger has a soft touch with precise control for less finger stress and strain
- 18-Volt 2.4 AHr slide-on battery charges in only 45 minutes to keep you working
- Industrial Strength Steel Gearing
